THE BADARACCA MURDER CASE

The murder trial of Antone Badaracco, which has fallen to the lot of Alpine county, is a severe blow financially to our eastern neighbor. It is the first costly case of that grade that has occurred in that sparsely settled county for years, and it is all the more galling from the fact that the defendant was not at the time of the killing, or at any time prior thereto, considered a resident of that county, but merely a summer sojourner therein. Badaracco for the past fifteen years has had the reputation of a desperado. He has repeatedly figured as defendant in criminal actions in Amador, and always managed to get off with a fine or imprisonment in the county jail. In June last he was tried on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and paid a fine of $500. It has been remarked that if he was permitted to menace the community, the outcome would be the killing of some good man. At the coroner's inquest over the body of Pendola, held at Kirkwoods, on Wednesday last week, nearly all the officers of Alpine county were present. The inquest was prolonged till four o'clock the following morning. The prisoner was left in charge of J. O'Connell and another man for several hours. He was bound hand and feet, and no chances were taken in the way of giving the least opportunity to make trouble or escape. He was removed to Markleville on Thursday, and will remain there for trial. There is no truth in the report that has obtained currency the effect that sheriff Grover of Alpine commissioned some other person to take the arrest, shrinking from the duty himself. There were several men in the arresting party, and not the least opportunity was given the desperado to make resistance. He was covered with revolvers from front and behind, and submitted to the ordeal without trouble except that he professed to be ignorant of what he was arrested for.

Obituary.

William E. Froelich, a young man only 22 years of age died at his parents home in San Francisco on Thursday August 31st, after a severe illness of two months. For a number of years prior to his last illness, he lived with his relatives at the Froelich home, near Martells, and attended the public school at Jackson. He had many warm friends around this place. He was of a loving, charitable disposition, always having a pleasant word and cheerful smile for all; always ready to help in need and distress. Although he had been a great sufferer for the last three years, he was patient, cheerful and uncomplaining, always doing what he could. He was the only son of Wm. and Mary Froelich of San Francisco, and brother of Mrs. A. Kevern and Mrs. D. Robinson. His last illness afflicted all the physicians, three physicians of this place were, consulted also several leading specialists of San Francisco, but without avail. He had to go despite all the loving care and attention that his heart-broken relatives could bestow upon him.

"How comforting is the hope that lingers
When loved ones cross death's sea,
That we when all earth's toils are ended
With them shall ever be."
—From one who knew him and loved him.

Numerous and Worthless.

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold at the City Pharmacy.

News Clipped From Our Exchanges

The attention of Justice McCauley's court was engaged Wednesday with the civil case of Gus A. Burns against Stephen Ferrari, in which the plaintiff sued for damages sustained by reason of a beating administered to him by defendant at Kerr's station on March 4th last. F. Alleyne Orr was attorney for plaintiff, while A. Caminetti represented the defendant. The evidence showed that the defendant did beat the defendant with a spreader stick on the date named; that because of an agreement between the beater and beaten Burns did not press a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Ferrari; that subsequent to that time Ferrari expressed a willingness to pay the sum of $30 to Burns toward paying a driver for his team for the fifteen days the team worked under Ferrari after Burns was beaten. These facts were admitted by the defense. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant had promised to pay the plaintiff the cost of the wages and keep of a driver for a month. But the defense denied this part of the claim of the plaintiff. The court in finding for the plaintiff allowed him the $30 admittedly offered by the defendant, and assessed the costs to the defense.—ECHO.

Pat McGuire had the misfortune to have his cabin at Doschville destroyed by fire last Friday, but was fortunate in escaping from the burning building. The old man was busy getting his dog a breakfast and had noticed that the heat was intense, but apparently took little notice of the heat until, hearing an unusual noise, he looked up and found the entire roof of the cabin on fire. He immediately started for the door, but before he reached it one of the tie beams fell, striking him on the head and knocking him down.

When he finally got out of the cabin his clothes were on fire and the roof almost immediately fell in. Neighbors went to his assistance, but were not able to save anything from the cabin. The loss of all his household goods and clothing falls quite heavily on the old man, who is 81 years old. The fire doubtless started from the flue.—ECHO.

Word was received in this city the first of the week of a distressing accident which befell Charley Cooley, who now resides in Washington. He was separator tender for a threshing outfit and in some way had his right arm caught in a belt and mangled to such an extent that it was found necessary to amputate the member above the elbow. At last report Charley was getting along well.—ECHO.

Jack Melville and Edwin Steel, son of George Steel of Bear Mountain, had a lively experience with a bear on the Steel range in the high Sierras a few days ago. Bears are very plentiful in the mountains this year, and these two persons had seen some ten or a dozen there before this encounter, and had killed two of them. On this day they were out on the range when in traveling through a thicket, Melville suddenly came upon a big cinnamon bear. He raised his gun and fired, and the bear apparently fell, kicking up a great cloud of dust. As it proved subsequently, the bullet had broken one shoulder. Melville started to pump another shell into his rifle, but before he could get it into use, the bear was upon him. One stroke of its sound paw struck him in the shoulder, the sharp claws tearing the flesh of the arm. Dropping his rifle, Melville grabbed the bear by both ears, and held on for dear life. At this juncture young Steel rushed up with a big bowie knife, and closing in on the struggle quickly put a end to the bear with a well directed stroke of the knife. In the course of the mix up young Steel received a bad cut on the wrist, severing the main artery. It took considerable work to stop the bleeding, and was a narrow escape from bleeding to death. It was finally stopped by binding on pitch gathered from nearby trees.—Prospect.

On Sunday last West Point's tall timber youths, so-called and known by their well tamed appearance throughout the universe, from the soda water fountain and last jumping-off place, so called by some of our visitors, but who never fail to make a good appearance and come to the front with a good showing of athletic sport throughout our base ball and summer season, visited Jackson and crossed bats with the El Keys of that place. The West Pointers were kindly received, and the most generous hospitality was shown them. The tall timber youths will never forget it and only hope that they will be able in the near future to return the compliment. The game of ball was skillfully played on both sides, was extremely exciting from beginning to end, and is the only eleven inning game ever played in this or Amador county. Again has West Point come to the front, and gained a well earned reputation by defeating the pride of Amador—their first defeat for the season.—Calaveas Chronicle.

Will Prouty pleaded guilty to the charge of battering the Arab peddler at the lone hotel, and justice McCauley fined him $200, which he paid.—ECHO.

J. L. Brown exhibited a deadly weapon in a threatening manner, and the judge gave him thirty days in the county jail as a result.—ECHO.

What It Costs The Big Dailies.

Very few people comparatively have any adequate idea of the immense cost of producing a modern daily newspaper, particularly in the large cities of this country. Some authentic figures on the subject have recently been made public and will doubtless occasion surprise to the uninformed. The "composition," (printers' weekly pay roll) for instance, on the Baltimore American is $2000; on the Boston Globe $4200; on the Globe Democrat, $3000; on the New York Herald, $4000 and on other papers in proportion. Bills for special telegrams are another big item of expense. On the Chicago Herald a few years ago they ran to $6500 per month; Cincinnati Enquirer, $5500; New York World, $5000; St. Louis Globe-Democrat, $12,000; San Francisco Examiner, $8000; Boston Herald, $6000 and St. Louis Republic, $4000.

Then there is the white paper bill, which is greater than all the others combined. On the New York World it is said to run $700,000 per year, and on the New York American about the same; on the Chicago News, about $250,000; on the Boston Globe and Herald about $350,000 each; on the Enquirer, about $300,000 and on many other papers it runs from $100,000 to a quarter of a million dollars every twelve months.

Yet most of these papers are sold at a cent a copy and none of them exceeding two cents. The production of a modern metropolitan newspaper at so small a cost to the purchaser is one of the marvels of the century.—Keokuk Gate City.

A chart published by a French scientific periodical and explained by a French scientist, shows how far men have penetrated the heights of the earth and air, says Everybody's Magazine. The Eiffel tower, 984 feet high, is the highest building. Mount Everest, 28,995 feet high, is the highest peak of earth. Dr. Workman of Worcester, Mass., holds the "record" for mountain climbing, 23,993 feet. His wife, Fanny Bullock Workman, has the woman's mountain climbing record, 21,910 feet. In 1901, M. Berson, in a balloon ascended 35,424 feet, the highest point reached by man, and nearly 3000 feet above the region of the highest clouds. In 1902 a balloon from Strasburg observatory reached a height of 73,111 feet.

NOTICE.

The lone high school will open on Sept. 4, 1905, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance from Amador, Sutter Creek, and Jackson on account of the very liberal commutation tickets issued by the lone and Eastern Railroad Company to pupils and teachers. The company has issued monthly round trip tickets at the extremely low figure of $10 per month from Martells, and $15 per month from Amador, Sutter Creek, and Jackson.

THE DOVE OF PEACE.

Mainly through the intercession of President Roosevelt, Jap and Russ have agreed to sheath the sword, and live as peaceable neighbors in the Orient. The blessedness that belongs to the peacemaker is due to the head of the United States. Had he not proffered his services to the warring nations, there is no doubt the terrible slaughter would have continued for months, if not years, longer. The magnanimity of Japan, the victorious nation in arms, in concluding a treaty of peace on the terms finally agreed upon is a matter of astonishment to the civilized world. Never in the history of the world has a conquering nation been so generous in making a compact of peace. This generosity is interpreted by some as a sign of practical exhaustion on the part of the doughty little islanders to prosecute the war successfully any longer. We do not believe this theory for a moment. We believe that Japan's ability from a financial and material standpoint to continue the struggle is greater to-day than that of Russia. Russia has more population to draw from, it is true, but the warlike patriotic spirit is absent; whereas it is a conspicuous feature of the Japanese soldier, and indeed of all classes in the island empire. And that spirit counts for more in the hour of battle than a mere show of numerical strength. Furthermore, it is probable that Russia was playing her usual game of diplomatic bluffing at Portsmouth, and that in spite of all professions to the contrary, she would have yielded to the demand for indemnity if Japan had insisted upon it to the verge of breaking off negotiations.

But after all, it seems little more than a patched up truce—a suspension of hostilities for an indefinite period. The terms of peace are satisfactory to neither side. In Japan the terms are held back, because of the hostility of the people to some of the provisions of the treaty—particularly the waving of indemnity and the surrender of one half of the island of Sagahien. Russia, on the other hand, is humiliated as she has never been humiliated before. Her national pride has been wounded to the quick. She has been placed before the world as a suppliant for mercy at the hands of a heathen power hitherto unreckoned with in the councils of civilized nations. This is especially galling to a people who for generations have hugged the delusion of world conquest and shaped their policy in accordance therewith. And Russia will now cling to the idea of some day wiping out the disgrace that has been heaped upon her. Nations are actuated by the same motives as individuals. In the interval of peace she will prepare for another struggle with her late adversary. This will force Japan to a state of preparedness also. So while peace hovers over the plains of Manchuria—the scene of the bloodiest war of modern times—the combatants will glare at each other from across their frontiers, ready to spring again at each other throats when the opportune moment is deemed to have arrived.

A MOVE FOR INCORPORATION.

Another practical movement is on looking to the incorporation of Jackson. This week a petition was circulated for signatures, addressed to the supervisors, and paying that body to call an election for the purpose of voting on the proposition. The petition was circulated by C. E. Kelley and W. P. Peek, and was readily signed by the necessary number of freeholders—fifty. It will be presented to the supervisors next month. The editor of the Ledger opposed the incorporation when it was pressed to an issue before, mainly for the reason that, as the laws were then interpreted, and enforced, a double license tax could be imposed on the business men in an incorporated city—one license by the county authorities, and another by the municipality. Under this plan a heavy additional expense would be entailed upon the business of Jackson, far greater in our opinion than would be offset by any benefits accruing from incorporation. There were other potent reasons for opposing the scheme at that time, which do not now exist. Under the interpretation of the law since the election on incorporation was held, the county cannot collect license within an incorporated town. It will therefore entail upon the business interests no additional burden on that score. True, the municipal license tax may be heavier or lighter than the present county license, as the municipal authorities may elect. Then again, the payment of road property and poll taxes will be lopped off; these will go for the support of the town government, instead of the county organization. With these two sources of revenue the government of Jackson as an incorporated town ought to be very well sustained, with the addition perhaps of a low tax rate for general purposes. It is high time that Jackson assumed control of her own affairs. It is too large and too important a town to be any longer under the leading strings of the board of supervisors. Our internal affairs in such a deplorable state that a local body of officers is needed to secure anything like a satisfactory administration. Incorporation may fail to secure the benefits hoped for, but at any rate, the fault will then lie at our doors, instead of others, who are not directly identified with our interests.

Our streets need looking after. The money we contribute annually for the county road funds, if available for our own streets, ought to work a wonderful change for the better in the course of a few years, without any additional expense whatever. Our sanitary conditions—sewerage, burial grounds, and other matters, demand immediate attention. Appeals have been made in vain to the supervisors on both these propositions. They are vitally important to Jackson's citizens, although they may be looked upon as of little moment to those who do not live within the town limits.

We have not examined the petition closely enough to be able to tell the proposed boundaries of the town. That is an all-important point. It extended unduly, merely for the purpose of taking in property for taxation, that cannot be benefited in any way by a city government, the scheme will run a serious risk of defeat at the ballot box. The Ledger is in for incorporation, but we are decidedly opposed to making incorporation the means of oppressing any one, or any interest—particularly the mining interest. We do not believe that fair minded men will want to place mining ground not already included in the town limits, within the proposed city limits for the sole purpose of assessing such property and to exercise a governmental supervision over the same. The danger of the miscarriage of the incorporation plan lies in this direction. The path of wisdom and success lies in the direction of taking in the town proper, and omitting the outskirts, where the residents are opposed to being included within the city limits.

Jackson M. E. Church.

"What the new pastor has a right to expect of the people," was the theme of Rev. C. E. Winning's address last Sunday evening, at the Methodist church, in closing the work of the conference year.

The preacher's remarks were of a very interesting character, and were listened to with evident pleasure by the congregation. He began by stating that the minister was a man. There was no double standard for manhood in the Bible. He placed the standard high for the minister, but every layman ought to line up to the same. Methodism was defined to be "Christianity in earnest," and the pastor had a right to expect 60 men and women of the Jackson Methodist church to be intensely in earnest. He alliterated the Pauline spirit of labor, liberality, loyalty and love, as the basis of a successful Methodist church. Under the head of labor the speaker said the new pastor had a right to expect a praying church, and a working church. "Half of my congregation, he said, are out listening to the band concert to-night." He would rather have them in church, but God had given them the ear for music and the heart for melody. The Methodist church had recently published a new hymnal, and the new pastor had a right to expect them to open their purses and procure the new hymnals, so that the music of the church might be of the highest class. If the church does not give men the best music, they will find it elsewhere. The new pastor had a right to expect their regular attendance at church. Upon investigation he had discovered that a larger percentage of his church members had attended during the past year, than any fraternal organization in Jackson, over a year old. Dr. Van Dyke had said that "what was needed was not so much a minister that would draw, but a church that would hold." The preacher finally said that the new pastor had a right to expect regular hearers. "He that hath ears to hear let him hear." There is more about hearing than speaking in the scriptures. The church was not like a theatre, or for entertainment merely. It is to be a place for guidance, and instruction and the preaching of the gospel.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Kaible, of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Kodol Digests What You Eat

THE FREE SCHOLARSHIPS.

The voting contest for the free scholarships in Stockton Business College and $100 for expenses while attending that institution for six months offered by the Ledger, is assuming a livelier phase with each passing week, and the interest will no doubt increase from now on until the close. There has been some spirited voting the past week, all the leading candidates moving up. Miss Heath has forged to the front, having fully doubled her score of last week. This simply shows what hard, earnest work will accomplish. The score now stands as follows:

Miss Mary Heath, Jackson	7500
Lewis Love, Jackson	5675 votes
Jas Pengelly, jr. Sutter Ok.	3350
Francis Bryant, Ione	2650 votes
William Grayne, Volcano	250
Elmer Dicken, Jackson	250

Always Successful.

When indigestion becomes chronic it is dangerous. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will cure indigestion and all troubles resulting therefrom, thus preventing Catarrh of the Stomach. Dr. Newbrough, of League, W. Va., says: "To those suffering from indigestion or sour stomach I would say there is no better remedy than Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have prescribed it for a number of my patients with good success." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold at the City Pharmacy.

English Roads.

What good roads they have in England! Look at the piles of broken stone for repairs stored in little niches along the way; see how promptly and carefully every hole is filled up and every break mended, and you will understand how a small beast can pull a heavy load in this country, and why the big draught horses wear long and do good work. A country with a fine system of roads is like a man with a good circulation of the blood; the labor of life becomes easier, effort is reduced and pleasure increased.—Henry Van Dyke in Scribner's.

Church Scandal Revived

The San Francisco Examiner of yesterday publishes a three column article concerning the scandals in connection with the Jackson M. E. church, which kept this community in such a ferment for a year preceding the last Methodist conference. Last year charges were preferred against Rev. F. A. Morrow former pastor of Jackson church. In the presence of these charges the rev. gentleman resigned from the ministry, and in this way an official investigation was avoided. Mr. Morrow and family have resided in Jackson the past year. Last week the ex-pastor and Mrs. Morrow went to San Francisco, and it was soon rumored that it was his intention to revive the alleged scandals before the forthcoming conference at Pacific Grove.

He has prepared a printed document of some 70 pages, presenting his side of the story, and from this the Examiner publishes copious extracts of a sensational nature. Some of things contained therein will be new to most of the people of this town; most of the published report however is a rehash of matters pretty thoroughly talked over hereabouts. People's minds here are made up one side or the other, and the revival of the trouble in not likely to change opinions already formed.

It is intimated that the Rev. Morrow sent back his credentials to the conference authorities last year, and the same were returned to him with the official endorsement "honorably dismissed." He says he is now called upon to permanently surrender these credentials. He therefore asks for another chance to vindicate his character, and place the responsibility for the anonymous letters elsewhere. He claims to be a persecuted man, and wants the conference now to do the very thing he shrank from having done last year, namely, have an official trial. It is improbable that conference will reopen the matter, as the ex-clergyman is no longer officially connected with the ministry as far as the conference is concerned.

SUMMER DOCTORS WANTED

When City Folk Go Into the Country They Want the Urban Practitioner.

In all the sections of our common country in which the summer boarder or the summer cottager has struck his roots and come to be recognized as a factor in the economic life of the communities in which he settles, the question of medical attendance has become burning, says the New York Times. The country doctor naturally assumed that he was to share in the prosperity of his neighbors and patients, the agriculturists, who "put" their products to the summer sojourner at from twice to ten times the local market. Visions of fees of $150 per visit, instead of his customary 75 cents, began to flit alluringly before his eyes. But he forgot to allow for the fact that doctors as well as patients might astivate. Not all city doctors go to Europe every summer. The baser sort go into the back districts of their own beloved land as cottagers, and in their village life keep one eye open on the main chance. The urban patient prefers them to the rural practitioner. We will not undertake to say whether he is right, though on that point we entertain a decided opinion. At any rate, the New Yorker, Bostonian, Philadelphian, in fact betrays in his rustication a preference for the urban practitioner. And the country doctor does not in fact partake the benefits of the urban Paclotus which irrigates the rural purveyor of milk, eggs and "livery." Nay, more. The very country doctor's own rural patients in some cases exhibit a preference for the treatment of the visiting city practitioner. Not in many cases, and not in any case more than once, seeing that three visits from a fashionable New York specialist, at city prices, would suffice to darken with a mortgage any farm in New Jersey or New Hampshire. But even without this aggravation the lot of the country doctor in the face of the annual city influx is hard, harder than it was before.

Poisonous Transferable Pictures

The royal ministry of Bavaria publishes a warning against the use of colors containing lead in the manufacture of transferable pictures. Attention is called by the official notice to the German law of July 5, 1887, which forbids the use of colors that are injurious to health. Children attach these transferable pictures in scrap-books, and girls and women use them for ornamenting glass jars, bottles, cigar boxes, fans, picture frames, paper cases, boxes, and many other small receptacles.

Mining at the Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Wm. Tuson, rector of the Episcopal church, Jackson, has been taking a course of learning not down in the curriculum of most theological schools. The church was very much in need of room for a hall which could be used for social gatherings, meetings for men, and Sunday school purposes. The funds were not available, so the minister shouldered a pick and shovel, secured a drill and went to work. As a result of his labors for the past three months, he has excavated a room 24 by 20 feet out of the solid rock under St. Augustine church, which is now getting to present a nice appearance. It will be floored, and furnished and is quite an improvement for that church. The walls are covered with cement and the purpose is to make the new addition available for a men's club and other social purposes. The Rector unearthed several quartz veins during his digging, but the pay dirt was not rich enough to pay for the work.

LABOR-DAY CELEBRATION.

Picnic at Fullen's Grove—Literary Exercises and Sports.

The annual celebration of labor day on Monday, September 4th, was under the auspices of Sutter Creek Miners' Union No. 133, at the usual place, Fullen's grove, midway between Sutter Creek and Jackson. The Sutter union was assisted by Amador City and Jackson miners' unions. The affair was successful in every way, both as regards attendance and the various features which enter into the recreation and sports which make up such occasions.

Jackson union marched to the grounds early in the day, preceded by the local band, and followed by a carriage occupied by R. C. Bole, orator of the day. The literary exercises began about 11 o'clock, when the oration was delivered by R. C. Bole. We regret that we have not space to print the speech in full. He began by saying that an old legend in Irish history stated that the ancient Irish used to seat at a feast the skeleton of some departed friend. One explanation of this was that they should eat, drink and be merry, for afterward they would be a long time dead. Another was that life is real, life is earnest, time is valuable, and it was to teach them to improve their opportunities, and to be temperate in their indulgences. The skeleton at the feast was supposed to be imparting the lesson—"Seeing what I am; you only too soon will be." The speaker exhorted them to give themselves up to the festivities of the day, and its mirthful spirit, but warned them to be temperate in indulgence. I envy the gold miner, he said. All you have to do is to find a mine, dig a hole in the ground, shoot off a few sticks of dynamite, run the rock through the mill, and the trick is done! We who work in less favored industries have all manner of troubles. For example: we work for a paymaster we can't get a cent out of if we shoot off all the dynamite between the Mississippi and the Pacific ocean—sometimes. He congratulated them on being the producers of the world's standard of value—the medium of exchange that subdues discordant passions between men and nations. He congratulated them on being in California, where we find gold and grass on the same mining claim; where we do not have to subsist on food imported from a distance, as do people in other regions; where we have a fair measure of prosperity, and a good outlook for the future. He expressed the hope that nothing would ever occur to mar the present friendly relations existing between the miners and mine owners. The mother lode is one of nature's great safety vaults, containing a treasure sufficient to purchase for this and many future generations of Amador county all the necessities and luxuries of life. It is difficult to get out the gold, but it is all the better for that. If it were easy, it would be soon exhausted, and our future uncertain. This is an age of improvement, and its spirit has reached this county. We used to travel in a stage coach; now, thanks to Jackson Dennis, we have a coal car, and in the sweet bye and bye we will have a baggage, smoker and passenger coach, just like other people. He looked for the same improvement in the social and political as in the mechanical world, which would result in the settlement of the vexed questions between labor and capital, and the abolition of strikes and boycotts. This happy result will not be achieved until people come to put in practical operation some of the fundamental principles of religion, such as the golden rule, loving our neighbor as ourselves, and the habit of every man putting himself in the other fellow's place. He exhorted the unions to do everything in their power to make their meetings interesting, to instruct the new members in the mines and unions how to do their work properly, and thus add to the safety of their own lives, and that of their fellow workmen. He emphasized the importance of paying their dues and keeping in good standing. He urged them to obey the laws of the land, and thus demonstrate to the world that a good union man is also a good law abiding citizen.

He concluded by saying that "the flag of our country is an emblem of equal rights, and the government of the United States stands between man and man, capitalist and laborer, the rich and the poor, guaranteeing simple justice to each, and furnishes a lawful remedy for every wrong."

The Drilling Contest.

Hundreds of spectators surrounded the exhibition of the drilling contest which divided with the base-ball game, and the blue rock shooting the attractions of the day.

A large space was roped off, huge granite blocks had been placed in position, and keen interest followed every stroke of the hammer in the drilling. The participants labored under the disadvantage of the boiling sun, with no shade. This ought to be corrected in the future.

In the down hole two handed drilling contest there were four entries, as follows: Bandi and Barbieri, Sam Radovich and M. Thomas, Wm. Amstaden and Kerr, Louis Casassa and Carrara.

Amstaden and Kerr, blacksmiths of the Keystone mine, won by the score of 33 1/2 inches, taking the first prize of $75, Louis Casassa and Carrara took the second prize of $25, making their drill of 33 9-16 inches, Bandi and Barbieri scored 31 3/4 inches. Great interest attached to the contest between Amstaden and Casassa, as the difference was slight, and the blacksmith's team apparently had the advantage in drill and skill, and went in to win.

The single handed, down hole, drilling contest was won by Mike Finetti, who took the first prize of $35; and Matt Thomas who took second prize of $15.

Blue Rock Shooting.

At the first tournament for the merchandise shoot Mr. Shealar from Sutter Creek tied William Hess of Jackson in a score of nine out of ten, both winning the first prize.

Sheriff T. K. Norman, and Mr. Winters of Ione made the only clean score of the day, killing ten birds.

Frank Valvo, won the booby prize, getting all the goose eggs on the score—that the reason there are no doves this year.

Web Smith of the Kennedy mine surprised his friends by his accuracy of aim and the easy, graceful way he toyed with his new gun. He found no trouble in getting 7 out of 10 of the birds any old time.

Doctor Wilson of Jackson, inspired by the prize of a strip of bacon, macaroni and cheese, bagged most of the blue rocks he aimed at. He was in good form.

Charlie Valvo did some fancy shooting that pleased the experts.

Dal Porta won the smallest bottle of whiskey in the merchandise shoot, but its quality is said to be as fine as his aim.

Charles E. Fourmer of Sutter Creek only shot one score, but he only lost one bird.

It is said that some of the best wing shots in Amador county were not at the tournament. But it was freely opined that if six of the best men in the county would attend the next state shoot they would probably win the state prize. The shooting was very good, and took much interest. Better arrangements for keeping the score, supplying the blue rocks, and cartridges would have made a better showing all around.

Dr. Kendrick of Jackson distinguished himself, by calling out the results.

Baseball Game.

One of the most exciting games of base-ball played in Amador county this year was one of the features of the afternoon. Although the drilling contest was in full blast, during the game, and the dancing platform, and shooting match were well patronized, these did not prevent a large and enthusiastic attendance at the ball game. The bleachers were lined with fans of both sexes cheering their favorites. The game was pronounced a good one by all present, and the Jackson devotees were proud of the victory of the local team. The score follows:

WORLD FEARS SUFFERING.

Since Advent of Anesthetics People Are More Afraid of Pain Than Ever.

The incident of a physician with a dislocated shoulder going from one doctor to another to get it set without an anesthetic and finally securing the heroic treatment at Bellevue is to-day so much out of the ordinary that it secures liberal space in the newspapers. The fact that a painful operation was performed without chloroform or ether, says the New York Tribune, is itself thought worthy of notice. The refusal of several physicians so to perform it is eloquent of the state of surgical practice.

Now and then in some doctor's office or medical museum we see a case of instruments which seem better fitted for the carpenter's bench or the butcher's block than for the surgeon's table. There are knives as large as carvers for cutting through quivering and sensitive flesh with free sweep and swift stroke, as if it were dead meat, and great saws for severing human bones like firewood. The sight of them is enough to make one glad not to have lived in the old days. It is much more comfortable to be carved up now. If anybody doubts that anaesthesia was the greatest blessing of the nineteenth century to humanity, the threat of an amputation with these old instruments is likely to change his opinion. Out of the football field men now and then get joints dislocated and stoically have them set without ether and rush back into the scramble. Battle and accident and disease still inflict untold suffering under circumstances which no one can deny. But in ordinary life, for the most part we have become so accustomed to relief from physical pain in surgical practice that the deliberate preference for endurance rather than oblivion excites interest and remark. Yet only a few years ago such endurance was a matter of course. To-day many people even to save their lives, would not face the pain of old-time practice, so much have habit and the knowledge of surgical luxury affected us. Just as it is impossible for him who has grown into the life of ease and self-indulgence to take up the regime of early days, when he worked with his hands and lived on hard fare, so it is impossible for most of us to face pain as our fathers and mothers did.

Some students of the Chinese tell us that their remarkable endurance of pain is not as much stoicism as lack of sensitiveness. They do not feel pain as the Caucasian does. If that be true, it is easy to believe in great variations not merely in self-control, but in sensory responsiveness. Perhaps our people, besides being less habituated to the endurance of pain as a matter of course, are also more sensitive to it, not only mentally, but physically. The modern nervous tension and quick responsiveness may lay upon the hero of to-day a vastly greater burden than was borne under the same suffering by the man of an earlier time, who was not braver or more self-contained or more the master of his own soul, but whose physical being did not vibrate with anything like the same intensity under external impulse.

Easily Arranged.
"The lady ain't got the money now," said Bridget; "but ye kin have the ice an' she'll pay on Saturday."

"But," protested the new iceman "she ain't got the money then?"

"Well, if she ain't ye kin take yer ice back."—Philadelphia Press.

Natural Deduction.
"All flesh is grass," remarked the man with the quotation habit.

"I suppose," rejoined the cheerful idiot, "that is why death is sometimes called the grim reaper."—Chicago Daily News.

Maneuvering of Warships.
In Time of Peace Is of as Much Importance as Target Practice.

Toward the end of December each year we read in the public prints that the fleet has been reviewed by the secretary of the navy or some other officer high in command, and that it has departed for the Caribbean for the winter maneuvers. Usually nothing more is heard of the fleet, says the American Review of Reviews, until about April 1, when it arrives off Pensacola for target practice. It is not strange, then, that the public has not a hazy idea of the relation of these winter cruises to the preparedness and efficiency of our navy.

The maneuvering of a ship is of an importance on a par with accuracy of gunfire. A ship that can make a hit with almost every shot but is badly handled may be—nay, often is—more dangerous to its friends than to its enemies; and a ship that can make but few hits is almost useless, however well it may be maneuvered. Thus, it will be seen that a ship's fighting value is equally dependent upon its handling and the accuracy of its gunfire, and hence the months of hard work devoted to ship and fleet maneuvers and target practice.

No joy or pleasure on this earth quite equals that which comes into the home when baby arrives. Who can describe the happiness of man and woman, joined in wedlock, as they look upon the fragile, delicate mite that is blood of their blood and flesh of their flesh? And who can depict the hopelessness and dejection that hover about the home where the wife is incapable of becoming a mother? Barrenness proceeds from some derangement of the distinctly feminine organs. Many of the common ailments known as "female troubles" cause it. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription overcomes barrenness by stamping out diseases of women, and by healing and curing ulceration. It tones up the system, stops drains, and restores strength. During gestation it modifies morning sickness, gives elasticity to the overstrained parts concerned, makes the hour of baby's coming short and almost painless, and gives wonderful recuperative power to the patient. By making the mother strong and cheerful, it makes the little one healthy, vigorous and good natured. Insist upon the medicine dealer giving you Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when you ask for it. Substitutes are often dangerous.

Mrs. James W. Blacker, of 609 Catherine St., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby."

For 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, you can get a free copy of that celebrated doctor book, the Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, illustrated, cloth-bound, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
